ICDALESH-2026

1.1 Conference Overview

The 2nd International Conference on Converging Disciplines in Arts, Linguistics, Education, Social Sciences, and Humanities (ICDALESH-2026) was held on October 16–17, 2026, in Manila, Philippines, under the theme "Interdisciplinary Dialogues for Innovation in Humanities, Education and Social Sciences." The conference brought together researchers, academicians, educators, and professionals to exchange knowledge, present research findings, and explore innovative approaches across diverse disciplines. It provided a platform for interdisciplinary collaboration, intellectual discussions, and the sharing of emerging perspectives. The event aimed to foster academic engagement, strengthen research networks, and promote innovative solutions to contemporary societal and educational challenges.

1.2 Conference Theme

"Interdisciplinary Dialogues for Innovation in Humanities, Education and Social Sciences" emphasized the importance of collaboration across disciplines to address contemporary challenges. The theme encouraged researchers and academicians to exchange diverse perspectives, explore innovative ideas, advance knowledge, and develop meaningful solutions that contribute to educational progress and societal development.

1.3 Objectives & Scope of the Conference

ICDALESH-2026 aimed to promote interdisciplinary research and collaboration across arts, linguistics, education, social sciences, and humanities. The conference provided a platform for researchers, academicians, educators, and professionals to present their findings, exchange knowledge, and discuss emerging trends. Its scope encompassed innovative teaching methodologies, cultural studies, language and communication, social transformation, educational development, and contemporary humanities research. It encouraged dialogue between diverse disciplines to address complex societal challenges and explore practical, research-based solutions. The conference also sought to strengthen academic networks, foster international collaboration, support knowledge sharing, and inspire innovative approaches that contribute to inclusive education, cultural understanding, and sustainable social development.

The Inaugural

The inaugural session commenced with a warm welcome to all delegates, speakers, and distinguished guests. The session featured inspiring inaugural speeches by Ms. Maria Tricia Ann B. Africa, MBA, CPR; Dr. Joseph G. Zafe; and Dr. Fermina Omar Annudin. Their addresses highlighted the significance of interdisciplinary research, international collaboration, knowledge exchange, and innovation in advancing education, humanities, and social sciences. The speakers encouraged participants to engage in meaningful academic discussions, share diverse perspectives, and explore innovative approaches to addressing contemporary challenges. The inaugural session established an engaging atmosphere for the two-day conference and set the stage for fruitful academic interactions.

Proceeding Book Release

The conference proceedings book was officially released, marking an important milestone in ICDALESH-2026. The publication showcased the research contributions and scholarly insights shared by participants across diverse disciplines. The release celebrated academic excellence, encouraged knowledge dissemination, and highlighted the conference's commitment to advancing interdisciplinary research and collaboration.
